District extends Boudin

BY ED LEPOMA

The Hancock County Solid Waste District has agreed to give Joey Boudin a four-year extension on his contract to pick up the county's garbage.

The agreement would pay Boudin about five percent more for the first new year of his new contract, but the actual figure would be determined after a count of households.

There would be no increase in monthly charges to customers, according to Chairman

Les Fillingame. The increase would be made up in the amount that the county, Bay St. Louis, and Waveland currently rebates to the District monthly.

Boudin, who operates Boudin's Waste and Recycling, also agreed to other stipulations laid down by Commissioners.

He can only use single-axle trucks to pick up and haul the garbage. And, garbage pickups in rural areas must be completed between the hours of 6:30 a.m. and 7 p.m. on the scheduled day.

Pickups in downtown Bay St. Louis and Waveland, which now have twice-a-week service, must be completed no later than 8 a.m. on the scheduled dates.

The agreement was hammered out after Fillingame, and Commissioners Lisa Cowand and Thomas Kidd met in executive session for about an hour. It passed unanimously.

Before going into private negotiations, Commissioners discussed with Boudin complaints about irregular operating hours, skipped customers, and charges that Boudin's heavy trucks were tearing up city and rural streets.

The Solid Waste District's two-year contract with Boudin was scheduled to expire Feb. 29, but the District had the option to renew it for two more years. Or it could have put the lucrative contract out for public bid.

Boudin told Commissioners he needed to buy new equipment to prevent breakdowns and provide better service, but couldn't get financing under a two-year pact.

He said he would like a five-year contract, which would guarantee him a six-percent increase. Boudin said in order to renew for just two years, he would require a 10-to-12 percent increase over what he now charges.

Officer's concern rewarded

BY RICHARD MEEK

Thirty months after a serious car accident that left Aimee Eckels pinned inside of a car for nearly 45 minutes, she said she remembers vividly the soothing presence of Waveland police officer Jerry Beaugez.

Beaugez was one of the first officers to arrive at the scene of a two-car wreck on Waveland Avenue that pinned Eckels and the driver inside of the vehicle. Beaugez never left the side of his former Bay High classmate during the ordeal, easing her anxiety by talking about old school days.

"Knowing somebody was there helped keep me calm," said Eckels. "He helped me keep my mind off of what was going on. He stayed by my side."

In appreciation of Beaugez's concern, Eckels donated $100 Monday to the Council meets with union

BY MARY G. SEILEY

Public Works Department employees and their union representative aired complaints to Bay St. Louis City Council in a Monday workshop.

Council members listened -- mostly without comment or question -- and adjourned the meeting with no indication they plan future meetings with the union or employees.

Monday's meeting came several months after an organizer with the Office and Professional Employees International Union AFL-CIO surprised council with a request that the union be recognized officially, and that contract negotiations be set.

Council recently refused to pass a resolution recommended by the mayor, which declared

County zoning to be discussed

BY ED LEPOMA

The newly elected Hancock County Board of Supervisors may soon be jumping into the proverbial snake pit.

Supervisors are scheduled to meet in a workshop Feb. 6 with the Gulf Regional Planning Commission to discuss a comprehensive zoning ordinance first proposed last March, then shelved by their leery predecessors.

Jeff Loftus, a planner with the GRPC, said Commissioners wanted to meet with supervisors to discuss the draft proposal.

As drafted by the Southern Mississippi Planning and Development Commission the far-reaching legislation was developed to coordinate the physical growth of Hancock County into the next century.

It would set aside land for single-family, multi-family residential areas and neighborhood commercial areas. It would also zone areas for heavy industrial use, highway commercial use and general agriculture.

The GRPC would be the agency charged with enforcing the zoning code, but there would be avenues whereby property owners could seek a waiver from the Commission and from supervisors.

Sewage alternatives sought

BY ED LEPOMA

Three Soil Conservation Districts on the Coast are banting together seeking $500,000 in Tidelands Funds to demonstrate an alternative to a mechanical lifting sewerage system.

Becky Gillette, an elected commissioner with Jackson County's Soil Conservation District, told supervisors Monday that Hancock County stands to get a large portion of the funds because "so many septic tanks are failing," especially south of Interstate 10.

And, a commercial fisherman warned if pollution continues to rise at a steady pace in the Bay of St. Louis and the Mississippi Sound, "It will be the demise of our fishing industry."

After the presentation, supervisors agreed to meet with Gillette and fishermen at a workshop scheduled Feb. 6.

Gillette said Hancock County is the home of the Stennis Space Center, which represents the ultimate in modern technology. "But with in a stone's throw, we have a very primitive situation because septic tanks don't work well south of I-10.

"It is nothing short of a scandal, and we must do something about it," said Gillette, who also chairs the Coast Sierra Club.

She said because the county has no plumbing code, raw sewage is being allowed to run into ditches and streams and poses a great health threat, especially to children who sometimes play in contaminated ditches and bayous.

Gillette has installed a rock/plant filtration system that treats raw sewage coming out of her home in Ocean Springs.

The system, first developed by Bill Wolverson, who once worked at Stennis, is now used in over 1,000 homes across the Coast, where homesites have a high water table and soils that don't drain well, Gillette explained.

The plants and rock bed break down waste products coming out of the septic tank.

Gillette said Senate President Tommy Gollotte of Biloxi and Sen. Clyde Woodfield of Gulfport both favor giving the three counties a Tidelands grant to start demonstration projects on the Coast. She asked supervisors to write a letter to Hancock County legislators asking them to support the funding when it comes up for vote by the legislature.

Gillette said if the grant comes through, low-income people might be able to get financial help to install the filtration system.

She said engineers don't mention the system as an alternative, "Because they don't make as much money as they would using a mechanical system."

District 2 Supervisor Rocky Pullman said his Pearlinton constituents are complaining about the cost of hooking up to the sewerage system proposed by Hancock County Wastewater District 1 and the estimated $35 monthly charge.

"I know something has to be done, but I want to do what is best for my people," said Pullman.

Bay City Council agrees to pay contractor

BY MARY G. SEILEY
Threatened with a breach of contract action and a work stoppage, Bay St. Louis City Council reluctantly agreed Monday to pay a $93,758 bill from sewer line extension contractor GM&R Construction Co.

The action, in a special meeting, reversed council's position taken last week. But payment of the bill came with the recommendation of the mayor, Public Works director Ron Vanney, and city attorney John Scafide. It also was endorsed by the city's engineer on the project, Garner Russell & Associates.

"I'm not happy with the process, but we have no other choice," council member Charles Scianna said of the payment. He was joined by council member James Rutherford and council president Tad Black in voting to pay GM&R's bill.

Council members James Thrifflay and Tom Favre voted against the payment.

Council members have complained that the contractor has not complied with certain terms of its contract, such as watering streets to keep construction dust from blowing on nearby residences.

That duty fell to the Fire Department on several occasions, officials said. Black said the Old Spanish Trail became so dirt-laden as to be a driving hazard.

And 12 weeks after sewer lines have been laid on Turner Street, no asphalt has been laid to return the street to normal, Black said.

He also complained that residents on portions of Citizen and St. Charles streets have seen their newly-cut ditches heavily damaged during sewer line construction — only to remain without sewers at this point.

Vanney acknowledged some difficulties his department has had with the contract, but said such relatively minor complaints are routine in such construction project. "It's the nature of the business," said Vanney.

Scafide said the city probably doesn't have the right to insist on 100 percent compliance with the contract until it has been completed and a request for final payment is made. At that time, Scafide said, the city can withhold some of the "retainage" it has for the contract, or turn to the performance bond for reimbursement of any city expenses. He said the city should keep a roster of any costs it incurs that should have been covered under the contract.

But Thrifflay voiced fear that the city would be stuck with dissatisfaction if the project engineer certifies 100 percent compliance has been reached, obligating the city to pay the total tab. "If the engineer says everything is kosher, we don't have a prayer," said Thrifflay.

Last week, Rutherford's motion to approve payment of the GM&R tab died for lack of a second. Monday, Rutherford hadn't arrived at the meeting by the time Scianna made a motion to approve the bill's payment. Just about to die for lack of a second, that motion was seconded by Rutherford as he walked into the meeting room.

The action came after attorneys for GM&R put the city on notice, via telecopy and certified mail, that the payments were due now. The company billed the city for portions of work on the second and third phases of sewer extension work Dec. 20, with the authorization of engineers with Garner Russell & Associates.

The contractor's attorney, William R. Purdy of Jackson, said not only had the payment not been made, but the city has failed to give the contractor an explanation. "The city's unexcused and unexplained failure to make timely payment constitutes a material breach of both contracts," said Purdy.

The contractor, he added, has

Echo ad staffers win seven press awards

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS
The Sea Coast Echo's advertising staff was honored with three first place plaques at the Mississippi Press Association's Advertising Conference held in Jackson last week.

Attending the conference from the Echo's staff were Ellis C. Cuevas, publisher, and Randy Ponder, general manager and advertising director.

The Echo's Hancock Today published in June, 1995, received high praises from the judges on both news and advertising contents.

In the weekly division with circulation of over 4,000, for best section or edition — editorial, the judge's statement about Hancock Today 1995 was, "Wow! A great section with quality editing supported by quality advertising! Good Job! I think this section would be a winner anywhere."

Drive successful

The GWRRA Jacket and Coat Drive held in December was a success thanks to the cooperation of the many people who donated over 300 items of

Storyteller to appear at museum

The Walter Anderson Museum of Art is sponsoring a performance by Adella Adella The Storyteller on Thursday, Feb. 8 at 7 p.m. The performance will take place at the museum in Ocean Springs.

Adella Adella is the stage name for artist Adella Gautier, a storyteller, actress and creative dramatist.

Ponder accepted the award for The Sea Coast Echo and staff.

Ponder, also received a first place plaque in the best grocery ad — color category, all weeklies, for an advertisement for Diamondhead Supermarket.

The judge's comments, "The coupon will get more customers in the door, and the art catches the reader's eye."

Echo advertising composer, Diana Perry, was also cited for a second place in the same category for a Diamondhead advertisement.

The judge's comments were, "Theme — good use of color in ad, attractive."

In the best retail ad — black & white division, Cecilia Howell Echo advertising representative, was cited with first and second place awards.

Howe received a first place for an advertisement titled "Come On ... Don't Wait!" for Joyce's Tropic Casuals at Fabian's, Long Beach.

The judge's comments were, "By far, this advertisement dominated the category. A good use of art and well-placed text send an immediate message to the consumer. There is no doubt what this ad is saying."

Howe also took a second place honors for an advertisement for the Princess Shoppe, Bay St. Louis.

The judge said, "This ad displays well-placed artwork with leading text."

The Sea Coast Echo's staff also placed second and third in the best section or edition — retail sales.

The Echo's "Home and Garden" captured a second place with judges commenting, "Overall quality ads that are consistent with theme."

A third place went for the Echo's "Discover the Coast" edition. "This section holds a lot of potential in advertising development. Good theme carry-through in ad content," the judges said.

The MPA Mid-Winter conference was held at the Harvey Hotel, Downtown Jackson, Jan. 19 and 20.

EYE CARE

by Allen J. Koskan, M.D.

THE EYE'S DRAINING EXPERIENCE

Glaucoma involves the fluid (aqueous humor) that is continuously produced in the inner eye to nourish the lens and cornea. Normally, it drains from the eye through a canal at the outside edge of the cornea. However, glaucoma occurs when fluid drainage becomes blocked. As excess fluid builds in the eye, intraocular pressure increases progressively to the point where the optic nerve become damaged and peripheral (side) vision slowly diminishes. Because this buildup of pressure associated with chronic glaucoma can go undetected by those who experience it, it is critical that a thorough eye evaluation be conducted regularly for the sake of diagnosis. Those particularly at risk include African Americans, for whom glaucoma is a leading cause of blindness. Other risk factors are increasing age, family history, past eye injuries and diabetes. Long-term use of corticosteroids may also help cause glaucoma in susceptible people.

Glaucoma is a serious eye disease that can only be detected with thorough and annual eye examinations. If you haven't had a routine eye exam in a year or more, call KOSKAN EYE CLINIC at 466-5201. Our eye health exams include a family history review and cataract and glaucoma testing. Dr. Koskan completed a fellowship in glaucoma at the Oschner Medical Foundation. Our clinic specializes in the treatment of medically and surgically related eye problems and perform laser surgery in our office. If you need eyewear, we carry a wide selection of the latest designer frames at competitive prices. Our office is conveniently located at Highway 90, Bay St. Louis, MS.

Swiss Scientists Discover New Energy Product

Lugano, Switzerland—After 25 years of research Lightning 828 was developed with the help of Swiss Laboratories. After extensive testing with amazing results, Lightning 828 is now available in the United States. Scientists are amazed at Lightning 828's results on improved memory, attitude and athletic performance.

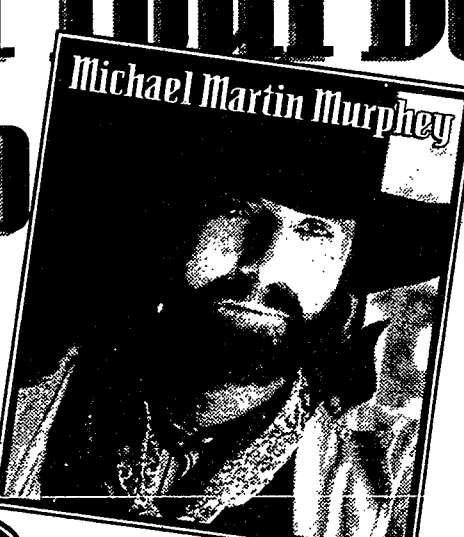

In a double blind cross-over trial on university students in Italy, Lightning 828 was given twice daily for 12 weeks. The results were astonishing. Students obtained higher scores in math, logic and physical education.

This new discovery has been a wind-fall for working and active people that seem to run short of energy around mid-afternoon and need a little extra lift. Lightning 828 when taken in the morning gives a sustained, balanced form of energy throughout the day.

During an interview in Chicago, a beautician stated, "I used to go home exhausted after being on my feet all day. Now it's just incredible. I go home with extra energy and really enjoy my family more." Lightning 828 is a necessary boost for students, professionals and senior citizens.

Lightning 828 is now available at most Kmart Pharmacies including: Waveland—3444 Choctaw Plaza Hwy 90 ... 467-6804

"CUEVAS' QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

It is good to see the Hancock County Board of Supervisors are going to ask the Legislature to name Highway 603 in Kiln the Norton Haas Memorial Highway.

Mr. Norton, as most of us called him, was a very good friend of mine. I worked together with him for many years on the United Way of Hancock County and other projects. His son Mac and I were classmates at St. Stanislaus for several years, too.

My grandfather, father and other family members worked in his family sawmill operations for many years.

The naming of Highway 603 from U.S. 90 to Highway 43 is really a fitting memorial to Mr. Norton, as he personally solicited easements for 603's widening and for the road to become a state aid road.

I would have to say that Mr. Norton was the best fund raiser I have personally known.

He helped so many causes, government, civic and church.

His contributions to Hancock County have been so numerous, it is just hard to list them all.

I had the privilege of being the keynote speaker in 1990 for the dedication of the arch over the entrance to Salmen Scout Reservation in North Hancock County in memory of Mr. Norton.

The Scout Reservation in Hancock County was a dream of Mr. Norton, and he followed it through to becoming reality.

It was a pleasure for me to just listen to Mr. Norton talk about the history of Hancock County. He was a walking historian. By the way, he was the first president of the Hancock County Historical Society.

He was the first football coach at Kiln High School, organized an independent baseball team known as the "Kiln Lumberjacks" and the "Mississippi Gulf Coast Baseball League" and managed a team from Waveland named the "Sentinels."

In 1960 he was active in securing legislation to create the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission, and that year, too, he was actively involved obtaining a hospital for Hancock County. He served as the first president of the board of trustees for Hancock General Hospital when it went into operation.

A president of the Bay St. Louis Rotary Club for two terms, 1936-37 and 1937-38, he helped pull the club together after the Great Depression. As president of the Rotary he played a leadership role in Bay St. Louis acquiring a natural gas system.

Mr. Norton was chairman of a $125,000 fund drive by Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church, which led to the organization of a girls' junior and senior high school known as Our Lady Academy.

He served as a member of the countywide survey team and was the original subscriber of the Coast Electric Power Association.

A charter member of the Mississippi Rivers and Harbors Association, and it was routine for Mr. Norton to drive from Bay St. Louis to Jackson and Vicksburg, attend a meeting and return the same day, even when he was in his 70's.

These are just a few of the many things Mr. Norton was involved in over the years.

His contributions to Hancock County continue to pay dividends today to our citizens and will continue to do so in the years ahead.

State Representative J.P. Compretta is handling the bill in the Legislature to name 603 the Norton Haas Memorial Highway, and I wish him the best and congratulate him for his efforts.

Diamondhead B&PA president responds to resident's letter

To the Editor:

I would be remiss if I did not respond to the recent letter you published from Mr. V. L. Minnaert of Diamondhead.

As a resident of Diamondhead, Mr. Minnaert is certainly entitled to his opinions. His correspondence however demands a rebuttal in several areas.

All of the major organizations of Diamondhead, including some which Mr. Minnaert belongs to, were sent a written questionnaire by the POA Board soliciting input and suggestions regarding the new country club which will be constructed.

It is true that not every individual member of the Property Owners Association was sent such a form, but the leadership of the various organizations truly represents a broad cross section of our membership.

It is also my understanding that after tentative plans are formulated, a town meeting will be conducted at which time all members will be invited to attend to provide input and ask questions.

Mr. Minnaert incorrectly observed "The only ones who profit from outside people, is the businesses in Diamondhead..."

In 1995 approximately 50 percent of our golf revenue came from outside individuals and organizations who utilized our facilities.

If we were to ignore this significant revenue source then Mr. Minnaert and all of our golfing members would have to pay approximately twice the annual golf fees which are presently charged.

Regarding the contribution that businesses make to the Diamondhead community besides providing convenient goods and services, let me cite some recent actions of our organization:

1. Provided the leadership to prevail upon Hancock County to widen and improve the recently completed Aloha Drive project.

2. Provided the leadership to obtain a Post Office station in Diamondhead.

3. Arranged for lights to be installed in the commercial area for everyone's safety and security (we pay the monthly light bill).

4. Hosted a 25th Anniversary Celebration recently conducted, which was highly attended.

5. Provided the leadership to obtain a Hancock County Sheriff's Department substation.

These are but a few of the many community projects to which we contribute.

Finally, I will agree that in the past five years there has been an increase in annual costs to residents of Diamondhead.

I would challenge anyone however to find a community that offers as much as Diamondhead does for the reasonable expenses we are charged.

There is a reason that we are the fastest growing community in Mississippi. It is because of the wonderful quality of life we enjoy at affordable prices.

I would not suggest that every action and activity of Diamondhead is as good as it should be.

I do feel very strongly however, and I believe the vast majority of Diamondhead residents would agree, that Diamondhead is a wonderful place to live and work.

Every two years each of its citizens is given the opportunity to elect community leaders, and by so doing everyone has a chance to promote opinions and beliefs at the polls, which is as it should be.

Sincerely,
L. J. "Mickey" Jordan Jr.

Children need to know we are all a little different

To the Editor:

There is something on my mind tonight, and it has occurred to me that perhaps I can write it down in such a way that it will, in some manner, benefit the children and young people of the community.

I am a retired teacher and school librarian. I never married or had any children by blood. However, through my work and the bountiful generosity of extended family members and friends, it has been my delightful privilege to have hundreds and hundreds of borrowed children. With the benefit of hindsight, I'm not at all sure that I would have had it any other way.

This afternoon I took one of my little borrowed daughters out for a small shopping expedition. As I drove to the store, I caught my young friend, quite frankly, staring at me. When she realized that she had been seen in the act, she giggled for a minute and said something like, "Your eyes look funny."

I must stop and explain, at this point, that I had a problem called spastic paralysis as a child.

I walk with a marked limp on the right leg, and the entire right side of my body is a little smaller than the left side. Thus, my right eye is noticeable smaller than the left eye.

As I have grown older, I have developed another problem called TMJ in my jaw. Among other things, it has somehow accentuated the difference in my eyes.

Anyway, my little borrowed daughter is extremely bright. She's beginning to notice that there is something a little different about my eyes and face.

On the spur of the moment and preoccupied with the traffic on Hwy. 90, I was at a loss to explain all this "stuff" about myself to one so young, but I took note of and pondered over her childlike curiosity. Then, tonight I related this brief experience to one of my valued adult friends.

He will recognize himself in this letter if I refer to him as "Big Man." Well, "Big Man" is quite wise and has a great deal of street smarts. He said, "Just tell her that we are all a little different."

Which brings me to the thought that I would like to leave with the children and young people with whom I really hope that this letter will be shared.

If I may begin in a very simple way, some of us have brown eyes and some of us have blue eyes. A few of us even have green eyes. My little friend has marvelous dark red hair. My hair was brown, but has become gray. Some of us are tall and some of us are short.

Some of us are fat, and some of us are skinny. Some of us have white skin, and some of us have brown skin. I'm very, very proud that some of my ancestors had red skin. Some of us love to play sports. Some of us love to read, or draw, or sing.

On a little more mature, grownup level, some of us are teachers. Some of us would rather be doctors, or policemen, or firemen, or newspaper editors.

When we go vote, we vote for different people because we think in different ways. We choose to attend many different churches.

Some of our lives are blessed and enriched with physical and mental challenges that makes us look a little different.

It occurs to me that one of the most special youngsters I ever knew in my work as a teacher was a brain-damaged child.

She could speak only a few words at the time I knew her, but there was a unique quality about her that always made me feel honored to be in her presence.

So you see, "Big Man" is right. We are all a little different. But, you know what? That means that we can all share our ideas, talents, abilities, and skills with each other, and the entire community, state and nation can be blessed by them and benefit from them.

We can all teach each other new things. Indeed, we should acknowledge, appreciate, and even celebrate our differences.

They are what makes each of us unique and special. They enable us to be of service to each other.

We should always remember that there is one thing that makes us all alike. We are all the children of our Heavenly Father. He loves us all. I feel sure that it pleases Him that each of us in unique and different.

Sincerely yours,
Sue A. Osborn

Reader would like to see a boat service

Dear Editor:

Since I was a child spending my summer vacation in Bay St. Louis, I have been waiting for some enterprising person or group to start a regular amusement boat excursion along the Hancock County coast line. It seems to me that the time is now ripe for this.

We have a casino at each end, the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club, Blaise's pier at Washington and the Waveland pier at Coleman Avenue.

People don't "go out for a drive" like they used to, but a boat ride would be great fun for tourists and natives alike, especially when their families are visiting.

Going to either casino by boat would be very appealing, and each landing I have listed has good parking space.

Perhaps the boat could be chartered for moonlight parties, or, if large enough, for school and church group trips.

The opportunities are endless, but all seem to spell out FUN!

I hope that someone reading this will be motivated to look into this venture.

If the fare is not prohibitive, many people would be able to enjoy a nice ride — either a short one, or the whole round trip.

Everyone should pay garbage fee, says reader

Dear Editor:

Like many others, I don't like Waveland's new $6 garbage fee. For years, part of the combined water-sewer fee included the costs of trash and garbage pickup.

But this is beside the point. A condominium unit or a rental unit is an individual housing unit, as is a mobile home or an apartment. Each should pay the new garbage fee — because this is fair — and equalizes the costs.

Those who don't want to pay their share are trying to "cheat" on this responsibility. Waveland needs responsible people.

FROM THE MISSISSIPPI HOUSE

By Representative
J.P. Compretta

A Weekly Summary

Submitted by Representative
J. P. Compretta

The emphasis was primarily on committee work in the House of Representatives during the past week with state finances, prison facilities and a bill aimed at helping financially crippled school districts among the myriad of issues under consideration.

The House, as the weekend approached, was preparing to take up a bill that would let the State Board of Education take swift remedial action in a school district where it has been determined that an extreme emergency exists. The measure was recommended by both the Education and Appropriations Committees. A similar proposal also has won Senate approval.

The legislation was prompted by severe administrative and financial problems at the North Panola School District in Northwest Mississippi, but applies to any district that might find itself in a similar plight. The North Panola District currently faces a projected deficit of about $1.4 million and emergency steps are necessary on behalf of the children in the system, state education officials told legislators.

Under the proposal, an interim conservator could be named to oversee the administration and operation of an ailing district, including approval or disapproval of all financial obligations. In addition, a special assistance fund would be set up to provide emergency interest-free loans to the district, with the money coming from the state's Stabilization Reserve Fund. The loans would have to be repaid within five years after the district's finances are put back in shape.

The amount that could be transferred out of the Stabilization Fund for such purposes would be set at not more than $2 million for any one emergency and not more than $3 million during the same fiscal year.

Committees have been working at a stepped-up pace on a massive stack of bills and resolutions introduced since the start of the 1996 session involving such diverse issues as economic development, criminal statutes, insurance, health care, agriculture, game and fish laws, and the state's correctional system.

The presidents of the state's universities joined Commissioner of Higher Education Thomas D. Layzell in a meeting with the Universities and Colleges Committee to go over their list of requests and long-term priorities. Major topics included proposed increases in funding for general support of the institutions, capital improvements, faculty salaries, development of a technological infrastructure, the Ayers case, and student financial aid programs.

The Legislative Budget Committee has recommended an allocation of more than $480 million for the institutions of higher learning in the coming year. This is a slight increase in money from the state's General Fund but an overall decrease in total funding of around $8 million.

Officials from the Department of Corrections have told House members they'll also need additional funds as the state's prison population continues to climb. A status report was presented to both the Penitentiary and Appropriations Committees on the multi-million dollar prison construction program authorized in 1994 by the Legislature. The legislation was designed to meet a federal court mandate and help keep criminals off the streets.

More than 5,900 state inmates have been removed from county jails since the 1994 act was passed, but Corrections Commissioner Steve Puckett said we still have over 2,000 state prisoners now backed up in local jails.

Several of the new and expanded prison units already are open, while a number of others are due to be ready later this year, including privately

NEW CONSTRUCTION

This year promises to be an exciting and busy year for Diamondhead — building the new country club, renovation with a new roof for the community center, new construction at Tennis World, and the rebuilding of the greens on the first nine holes of the Cardinal, and in June the election of a new POA board.

All the POA staff, the committees, and generally, residents who do their share and get involved, are working hard to make this the best year ever for the Diamondhead community.

Everyone's help, input and support are needed to make it work.

Supervisors hear road complaints

BY ED LEPOMA

Several residents of rural communities came to the Board of Supervisors Monday to complain about deteriorating and dangerous roads in Hancock County.

Supervisors weren't caught unaware. Last December, before they took office, they toured the more than 480 miles of roads in the county to get a first-hand look at the situation.

Residents of White Cypress Lakes told supervisors there are 50 full-time residents in the development, but approximately 300 lots have been sold in the 3,600-acre tract. They said "they haven't had anything done on their roads since 1990." The development lies in the northwest part of the county off the Cedar-Necaise Road.

Buddy Lichtenstein said access to Jim Kelly Road that runs south off Highway 90 in Pearlington has been blocked by a property owner who has put up gates at his property line.

He asked supervisors to look into the problem, and District 2

Supervisor Rocky Pullman instructed board attorney Gerald Gex to determine if the Road-in fact—has been maintained by the county and is a county road.

Bill Fricke, who put up the gates, said he bought the land years ago from International Paper, and he owns the land in question. He said his property is fenced because it is a sanctuary for deer and other wildlife, and he put up the gates because he didn't want hunters to have access to his property.

Gladys and Donald Jacobs came to the meeting with a petition signed by 75 to 80 residents of the Silver Creek Acres subdivision. The development runs off the Kiln-Delisle Road and is on the borderline of the Fenton-Kiln Communities.

Jacobs said the tract sits in a low-lying, flood-prone area, and roads need to be upgraded, and drainage needs to be improved.

"We still have dirt roads after 35 years," Jacobs complained. He also claimed a previous supervisor had closed two streets, limiting access to the property.

District 5 Supervisor and Board President Philip Moran said he wants to take care of the ditches and drainage problems first, and would ask County Road Supt. Tommy Moran to look into the problems. Moran said he and District 1 Supervisor Lyonie "Jeep" Ladner had toured the area last week.

Mark Duffy, representing homeowners in the Lazy Rivers Estates off Highway 603, complained that "roadways are like a washboard" in his subdivision because of the current project extending sewerage to the area. He said school buses use Avenues B and 19th Street, and "some temporary repairs were needed."

Supervisors fired Road Supt. Sam Cuevas when they took office Jan. 2, and replaced him with Tommy Moran, who at one time had been assistant to Cuevas.

Pullman indicated Moran's tenure in that position might be shortlived. He asked supervisors to begin advertising for a road supervisor, but the motion was tabled.

Moran and Chancery Court Clerk Tim Kellar indicated they were developing specific requirements for the job and wanted to put those details in any advertisement.

Supervisors also agreed to pay Cuevas for 120 hours of vacation pay he had accrued. They also raised Moran's salary to $2,785 a month retroactive to Jan. 2 when he took over the position. It is the same salary paid Cuevas.

Supervisors voted unanimously to pass a resolution supporting the naming of a portion of Highway 603 in honor of Norton Haas.

A memorial plaque would be placed on 603 running South to Highway 90 and north to Highway 43 in Kiln, designating that strip the Norton Haas Memorial Highway.

State Rep. J.J. Compretta, who heads the Transportation Committee in the House, said he will introduce the legislation.

Haas, who died in 1985, operated a lumber yard in Waveland, and was involved in several community activities.

He helped reorganize the local Chamber of Commerce, served as president of the United Way in Hancock County for 20 years, and was active in the Cypress District of the Boy Scouts and in Our Lady of the Gulf Church.

Haas also was credited with the drive to form the Port and Harbor Commission, which led to industrial development at Port Bienville and to the creation of Stennis Airport. With his son, Michael, he was instrumental in construction of the Hancock County Medical Center and served on its Board of Trustees when it opened.

Haas also served the Pearl River Basin Development Commission, and was instrumental in naming McLeod Memorial Park in honor of his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. A.J. McLeod.

Board opposes rubbish site

BY ED LEPOMA

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors is on record "strongly opposing" plans by a private landowner to open a rubbish site northwest of Kiln.

In their meeting Monday, Supervisors unanimously passed a resolution asking the Mississippi Department of Environmental Quality to hold off any decision because they are looking for sites for a county rubbish dump and landfill.

The MDEQ's Permit Board conducted a public hearing Jan. 9 on an application by Curtis Wayne Johnson to permit a 50-acre rubbish site on property he owns on Firetower Road off Hwy. 43.

If approved, Johnson could charge Hancock County residents or others from out-of-state for dumping demolition and construction materials, tree branches and limbs and other trash.

Several residents of The Kiln came to the public hearing to say they didn't want a rubbish site so close to their homes. They also worried about increased truck traffic and contended the operation would decrease the value of their homes.

Board President Philip Moran pointed out that supervisors had an initial meeting with NASA officials last Friday, and remain hopeful that the county can find land in the buffer zones surrounding the giant Stennis Space complex for a rubbish site and landfill.

Stennis officials have offered their full cooperation, Moran said.

Innovative scheduling discussed for schools

BY RICHARD MEEK

An innovative scheduling concept may await students at both Hancock and Bay High schools in the fall.

In an agreement sealed Wednesday night at the county courthouse, officials from both the Hancock County School Board and the Bay St. Louis-Waveland School Board voted to adopt similar school days. The move, according to officials, is the first step in adopting "block scheduling," an alternative method of teaching and learning.

"This is an opportunity for (both boards) to work together," Bay St. Louis-Waveland School Superintendent Paul Tisdale said. "Hopefully, this is a first in a series of cooperative efforts."

Although nothing has been finalized, board officials are hoping to have "four by four" scheduling in place for next fall.

MILITARY MENTION

SEAMAN BARNES

Navy Seaman Robert D. Barnes, son of R. C. Barnes of Bay St. Louis, has returned to Norfolk, Va. after completing a six-month overseas deployment aboard the guided missile cruiser USS Vella Gulf, which included duty in the Persian Gulf near Iraq.

The 1993 graduate of Bay High School joined the Navy in October 1993.

Under the new setup, students would take four classes each semester, and credit would be earned at the semester's completion. In block scheduling, classes last anywhere from 90-105 minutes.

Officials said it is conceivable students could earn up to eight credits per school year, as compared to the current seven.

"There are some advantages," Tisdale said. "Teachers would be teaching only three periods per day. That would give them more time to plan their classes."

He added that teachers would be teaching about 100 students per day, as compared to 150 currently. Theoretically, teachers would be able to devote more individual attention to their students.

Additionally, it may also reduce the need of summer school. If a student should fail a class in the fall semester, he or she would be able to make it up in the spring semester. It is also possible a student may graduate in three years by earning eight credits per school year.

However, Tisdale was quick to add the concept "does raise a ton of questions and issues."

Some of those, he said, include a change in the way teachers plan and teach, class loads, how homework intensive are the classes a student is taking and attendance. Tisdale pointed out that under block scheduling, one absent day is similar to two under the standard setup.

The change may also force a new time schedule at Bay High, which would be its third in three years. Tisdale said it is premature to say definitely that the school day will change, but added, "we will be looking how the school day is organized."

Block scheduling has been discussed at Hancock High School for quite some time, although no formal action has been taken. If Hancock would adopt the change, and Bay High would elect to remain under its current schedule, Tisdale admitted the Bay school system would "have major problems."

Anywhere from 50 to 80 Bay High students take vo-tech classes during the day at the Hancock County Vocational Technical Center located next to Hancock High.

"It's a problem for us because we have to take the time to transport our students back and forth," Tisdale said.

Currently, schools in Pearl River and Harrison counties and Gulfport are using block scheduling. School systems in North Carolina and Virginia have been using the model for several years, Tisdale said.

Hancock County Superintendent Terrell Randolph was in meetings all day Wednesday and could not be reached for comment.

operated 1,000-bed prisons in Marshall County and Leflore County. The new facilities will boost the maximum capacity of the system to approximately 14,700. But corrections officials are projecting the number of state inmates will have jumped to more than 22,000 by the year 2000.

In other action, the House Appropriations Committee adopted a policy aimed at helping to ensure that proposed expenditures in the coming year will not exceed projected income. Under the plan, the committee agreed to accept Joint Legislative Budget Committee recommendations as a starting point in determining how much money to allocate for various state agencies and institutions. Any increases over Budget Committee proposals in individuals budgets would have to be offset by a corresponding decrease in other areas.

A similar policy has been adopted by the Appropriations Committee in recent years in preparing its recommendations to submit to the full House of Representatives. The policy also provides that:

- No funding bills will be released from the committee to the full House until all budgets, including those originating in the Senate, have been proposed and a balanced budget is within the committee guidelines;
- A summary list of individual budgets for agencies and institutions, reflecting an overall balanced budget, will be provided to the full House at the same time House-originated appropriation bills are presented.

The allocation of funds to help defray operating expenses of public schools, universities, community colleges, the state's correctional system, and various agencies is among the most demanding responsibilities facing lawmakers. The Legislative Budget Committee has recommended a state budget totaling $7,694 billion in general and special funds for Fiscal Year 1997 which starts July 1, 1996.

The proposals include $2.767 billion in General Fund expenditures, a net increase of $44.6 million over this year. Budget recommendations include $117.5 million in "built-in" increases for FY 1997 for operation of new prison facilities slated to open in coming months, provide annual salary increments for teachers, pay on the state's bonded indebtedness, and meet other obligations.

Other highlights of the week included a joint session for the Governor to give his State of the State address and present his legislative recommendations. The Governor placed heavy emphasis on four key areas — fiscal affairs, the welfare system, crime prevention, and education.

There was mixed reaction from legislators to the 30-minute speech with lawmakers generally agreeing with the Governor on certain matters and differing with him on others. He won applause for some of his proposals to crack down on crime, including legislation that would prohibit the release pending appeal of people who commit violent crimes and those identified as high-risk offenders. As expected, the Governor resubmitted his plan to reduce the state income tax over a three-year period by boosting personal exemptions that taxpayers may claim and doing away with the so-called "marriage penalty" in exemptions.

Representatives from daily and weekly newspapers, radio stations and television stations from across the state visited the Capitol Thursday, Jan. 18, for Legislative Media Day. The biennial event is sponsored by the House and Senate in conjunction with the Mississippi Press Association and Mississippi Association of Broadcasters. Its purpose is to provide first-hand information to the media regarding the legislative process and key issues facing legislators.

A list of bills introduced in the House can be found at the City-County Library on Hwy. 90 in Bay St. Louis. I can be contacted during the Legislative Session in Jackson at the following telephone number (601) 359-3326, and the mailing address is P.O. Box 1018, Jackson, MS 39215-1018. My address and telephone number in Bay St. Louis is P.O. Box 128, Bay St. Louis, MS 39520, (601) 467-6515. I always welcome citizen's comment and input concerning matters pending in the legislature.

Fire marshal praises county volunteer fire departments

Hancock County Fire Marshal Richard Pate said Hancock County volunteer fire departments answered 1,456 calls during 1995.

Of those, 73 were structure fires, which included homes and businesses. Grass/woods fire accounted for 315 calls, 63 were automobile fires, 601 emergency medical calls and 404 public assistance calls.

Pate said the departments operate from donations and money from the county and state. He said fire trucks can cost up to $800,000 apiece, not including the maintenance costs.

"The money is also used to purchase radios, breathing apparatus, fire protective clothing, fire hoses, fire nozzles and tools," Pate said. "All this is needed for fire protection in our community."

According to Pate, volunteer fire fighters are required to go through hours of training each month, and attend the state fire school. He added the county has the highest percentage of graduates in the State Fire Fighters Certification program.

"Hancock County has one of the best volunteer fire fighter operations in the state," Pate said. "The men and women of these volunteer fire departments give a lot of their time and dedication to the community."

"I want to thank them and I hope the people in the community take time to say thanks and give these volunteers their support."

Zoning

In separate interviews with the Echo, all five of the new supervisors have indicated they hoped to pass a comprehensive zoning law as soon as possible. They contend people are hesitant to buy land in rural areas of Hancock County, because there is no control over what might be built next to them. Realtors contend lending institutions also shy away from loaning money in areas that are unzoned and have no building or plumbing codes.

Ironically, shortly before supervisors discussed zoning, a group of seven residents of Indian Street north of Highway 603 came to complain about trouble they are having with Ace Towing operating in their Waveland neighborhood.

Neighbors charged the noise from towing trucks keep them up at night, the wreckers are parked on the side of the street and sometimes block driveways and access to mail boxes.

After they complained to police, residents said they got a letter from lawyers for Ace, saying they would take action if they continue to "harass" the towing operator.

Neighbors were also worried about oil leaking from wrecked cars that they think could contaminate their shallow water wells. They also wanted Ace to erect some kind of privacy fence, blocking off the operations from view.

County Attorney Gerald Gex told the group there was little the county can do to halt the operation, since there is no zoning laws. He said their only recourse was to use the criminal statutes which deal with disturbing the peace or blocking access to roads.

District 4 Supervisor Steve Seymour said he would attempt to meet with the owners of Ace to see what might be done.

Complaints about businesses being operated next to homes in rural areas are not uncommon.

Last September, angry residents of the Bayou Phillips Community in Waveland complained to supervisors, then walked a picket line protesting plans by the county's trash hauler to move his business across from homes on Harbor Drive.

Supervisors, who have since been voted out of office, told residents there was little they could do to stop anyone from building anything he wants on land he owns because rural areas are unzoned.

Sewage

"Instead of being polarized, we all need to work together as a community. We can't do anything wrong. If we just do something, it will be right."

Gillette's pollution claims were bolstered by two commercial fishermen, representing the Mississippi Gulf Coast

Fisherman's Organization.

One had a graph showing the fecal-coliform bacterial count has doubled in the Mississippi Sound since 1990.

"Because of the pollution, oyster reefs are closing quicker than they have before and they are closing farther out," he said.

Keith Ladner, co-owner of Terry's Seafood at Bayou Cad- dy, said his oystermen have worked only three days in the last nine weeks because most reefs are closed.

Ladner said if pollution continues, "We will have to close the Mississippi Sound, and if that happens, it will be the demise of our fishing industry."

Ladner said he wasn't endorsing any particular system for solving the county's sewerage problems, but he was concerned about the health hazards, and the continuing pollution of coastal fishing waters.

"We're one of the fastest growing counties in the area. Something has got to be done," said Ladner.

Hall

Hall replaces Joe D. McCullough, and will be sworn into office next Monday, Jan. 29, when the Commission is scheduled to meet.

Hall, 72, is a native of Stone County and was born in Ten Mile, Mississippi. He retired from Sears Roebuck having served in managerial positions in Laurel, Miss., New Orleans, Atlanta, Alabama, North Carolina and Virginia, and in Sears' corporate headquarters in Chicago.

Hall and his wife bought property in Diamondhead in 1972, and moved there nine years ago when he retired. He served on the Diamondhead Sewer and Water Commission and was chairman of the United Way Drive in Diamondhead. He also served on the Hancock County Board for United Way. He is also an active fund raiser for the Eagle Club for the University of Southern Mississippi, his Alma Mater.

An avid tennis player, Hall belongs to the Diamondhead Tennis Association and is active in senior league play. He also belongs to the local American Legion post, and the VFW chapter in Kiln.

Hall became the fourth new appointment to the important Port and Harbor Commission since new supervisors took over Jan. 2.

Only Dave McDonald, who serves as chairman and represents District 5, was retained.

For the first time, two blacks will serve on the commission. Harry Favre, a former Bay St. Louis councilman, will represent District 4, and Kevin Hill of Pearlinton, District 2.

Former Waveland Alderman Curtis Colsen was named to represent District 1, replacing Lyonic "Jeep" Ladner, who was elected to the Board of Supervisors.

Supervisors presented Ladner, Frierson, (District 2) and Oliver DeBever, who served District 4, with plaques of appreciation for their years of service to the P & H Commission.

AARP plans tour

The Diamondhead AARP is planning a bus trip March 5-6 to Hattiesburg and Jackson.

The trip includes a shopping excursion in Turtle Creek Mall in Hattiesburg. The group will go to the University of Southern Mississippi campus for a concert by the St. Petersburg Symphony Orchestra.

The next morning, after breakfast, the group will depart for Jackson to tour the Russian Palace Exhibition. Cost is $123 per person (double occupancy).

For reservations and information, contact Irma Checkfield at (601) 255-5816.

Departure is from Diamondhead Community Center. Space is limited.

"I feel the time (Beaugez) took came from his heart, not from his job," Eckels said. "I think we should make more good comments about police officers, instead of always complaining."

Beaugez said he does not remember exactly what he and Eckels talked about, but he said he did his best "to try to get her mind elsewhere."

"I react better during tough situations," Beaugez said. "Especially knowing there's a friend involved."

Eckels suffered leg injuries and a broken arm in the crash. There were no fatalities.

Mississippi Power

Alpha Hospitality to develop, manage projected Indian casino

Alpha Hospitality Corporation announced its Alpha St. Regis Inc. subsidiary has entered into a memorandum of understanding with Catskill Development, L.L.C. pursuant to which Alpha St. Regis would participate in the development of and would manage a casino which is planned adjacent to the Monticello Raceway in Sullivan County, N.Y.

The casino will be owned by the St. Regis Mohawk Indian Tribe and would be located on land to be placed in trust for the benefit of the tribe. Under the memorandum of understanding, Catskill Development and Alpha St. Regis are committed to entering into a definitive agreement on the terms established in the memorandum.

Catskill Development, L.L.C. holds a contract for the purchase of the 225-acre Monticello Raceway. It plans to continue Monticello's racing program and to explore other development at the site in addition to the St. Regis Mohawk Casino. The casino project is subject to approval by the U.S. Department of Interior, the National Indian Gaming Commission and the State of New York and the execution of definitive agreements with the tribe.

The Monticello Raceway is located 90 miles from New York City. The projected casino would be the closest casino to the metropolitan New York City area.

Alpha currently operates two casinos in Mississippi, has contracted for the purchase of a casino in Central City, Colo. and has entered into a lease with the City of Louisiana, Mo., for the development of a river boat casino.

Grand Casino

Donations

Grand Casinos fourth quarter donations totaled over $70,000. This ends the 1995 calendar year with excess of $200,000 donated to over 160 local charitable organizations. The Grand Program targets non-profit 501 (c)3 organizations with an emphasis on improving the quality of life in the local community through education, human services and cultural activities.

"We addressed two important local projects in this quarter," said Denis O'Brien, senior vice president of operations. "Grand Casinos in their continual commitment to our local community is very proud to host the St. Petersburg State Symphony Orchestra in our Biloxi Grand Theater as a benefit fund-raiser for the Saenger on March 4. In conjunction with the fund-raiser, the Grand Program donated $10,000 to get the project kicked off. Grand Casinos was also very pleased to help the local Goodwill Chapter qualify for a $50,000 grant by donating $10,000 in matching funds."

Several other recipients of the fourth quarter grants include the Gulf Coast Opera Theatre, American Heart Association, Gulf Coast Community Action Agency, Mississippi Gulf Coast YMCA, Jackson County Literacy, Greater Biloxi Economic Development Foundation, Harrison County Child Development Center, Jackson County Civic Action Committee, Bacot Home for the Youth, Joppa Temple, Christmas in April, Gulf Coast Community Action Head Start, Community Action Elder Day Car, Greater Biloxi Economic Development Foundation, Mississippi City Lions Club, The Junior Auxiliary of Pascagoula-Moss Point, Preserve Sight Mississippi, Mississippi Coast Crime Commission, St. Peters by the Sea, United Cerebral Palsy of Northwest Florida, South Mississippi Family Child Center for the Prevention of Child Abuse.

Organizations are asked to limit proposals to one per organization in any calendar year. All Grand Program grants are restricted to federally recognized tax-exempt 501 (c)3 organizations located or providing services in Grand Casino's business area.

Applications for first quarter donation consideration will need to be submitted by March 15. Requests for information and an application should be directed to Susan Walker, Grand Casinos, Grand Program, 2909 13th Street, Suite 500, Gulfport, MS 39501. The next quarterly meeting of the Grand Committee will be the last week of March.

Boudin's current contract with the District now pays him about $600,000 million a year. He began picking up bulky items, such as sofas, refrigerators and other appliances once a week last November, and is paid an additional $7,500 a month for that service.

When he was awarded the contract in 1994, Boudin's bid was substantially lower than the giant haulers on the coast-Browning Ferris Industries and Waste Management Inc.

The contract awarded Boudin would begin March 1, and extend to March 1, 2000. It also provides a yearly rate adjustment beginning in March of 1997 tied into the Consumer Price Index, and would also be dependent on a count of households.

Currently, the District uses Coast Electric and Mississippi Power Co., meter counts to ascertain the number of garbage customers in the cities and rural areas of the county.

Before going into executive session, Gene Bergeron, who lives on 5th Street in the Bayou Phillips Community of Waveland, said Boudin's operations off Harbor Drive were ruining the streets and the truck traffic made it unsafe for neighborhood children.

He also objected to Boudin's plans to build a new maintenance facility and truck marshalling yard on 10 acres he owns directly across from homes on Harbor Drive.

"You need to keep this kind of operation out of residential neighborhoods," Bergeron said.

Fillingame said Commissioners and the Board of Supervisors can't tell Boudin what to do on property he owns because the county has no zoning restrictions.

And, even if a zoning law was passed, Boudin could be "grandfathered in" because he already has an existing business, Fillingame said.

Fillingame also told Boudin to let the District know about customer complaints. He said drivers should not be given any discretion on as to where they might pick up.

Customers have been asked to put garbage out alongside their mailboxes, and Fillingame said even if they don't, Boudin's drivers need to collect it anyway, and report it to the District.

"You pick it up. Let us handle it, if they abuse it," said Fillingame.

Boudin also complained that his workers are losing time in rural areas because trucks sometimes bog down on poorly-maintained roads. He said low-hanging tree limbs are also a problem.

He was instructed to report road problems to County Road Supt. Tommy Moran. And, District 3 Supervisor Coward, who represents the Board of Supervisors on the Commission, said she planned to tour rural roads with Boudin in the near future.

Boudin is the son of County Civil Defense Director Bobby Boudin, who started the business, then turned it over to him. He recently signed contracts to pick up garbage in Picayune and Poplarville.

Casting call for 'The Chamber'

It has been announced that a major motion picture based on John Grisham's novel, "The Chamber," will begin filming in Mississippi in February. The movie will star Gene Hackman (Crimson Tide) and Chris O'Donnell (Batman Forever). It will be directed by James Foley (Glengarry Glen Ross, At Close Range).

An open call is being held in Cleveland, Miss. on Saturday, Jan. 27 at Caler Hall, Room 205 at Delta State University (Hwy. 9) from 10 a.m.-5 p.m.

Tips On Writing EFFECTIVE Classified Ads

STICK TO THE FACTS

Prospective buyers need to know details, like the condition of the item for sale, the size, brand name, color and any other relevant information that would help them make a decision.

BE HONEST

Aside from being unethical, exaggerating or misinforming potential buyers won't help you make a sale, and may only serve to lose a prospective buyers' trust. Even if they come to look at what you have to sell, they'll be less likely to buy the item or trust you once they see they've been misled.

SPELL IT OUT

Abbreviations are not easily understood by many people and may even confuse a reader. It only takes them a second to pass over an ad because it doesn't seem clear, why let it be yours because you abbreviated a description?

THE BOTTOM LINE

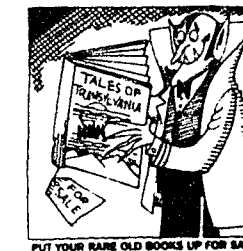

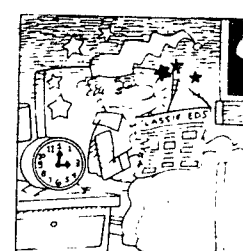

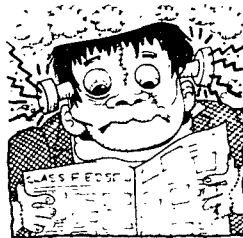

State the price. You'll save yourself the hassle of having to answer calls from prospects who, upon learning the price, are not really interested. Price is the first thing they'll look for when reading your ad, and when prospects know the price, you'll know you have a serious buyer on the line.

BE THERE

List the best hours to call and make sure you're at home. If you don't list a specific time, you could be flooded with calls any time of the day or night. And when you're not at home to take calls, most likely, they won't call back.

ASK US

If you aren't sure how to word your ad or what features to include, why not ask us? Our professionals on staff know how to create an effective ad that sells, they're always willing to help, and there's no charge!

Union

that the city would not recognize a union. Instead, they set Monday's meeting to air discontent with the department.

The union organizer, Howard Turberville, presented a series of proposals ranging from such issues as overtime, seniority, and work force reductions, to promotions, dues check-offs and payroll deductions.

While he asked that a committee be set up to discuss those issues further, no action was forthcoming.

Council president Tad Black, himself a member of the United Auto Workers Union, said the Public Works' employee requests would offer benefits even he doesn't receive through his union's representation.

Black had stressed that Monday's meeting offered the employees a direct access to council to air complaints, although he noted that council has no direct authority over hiring and firing employees, pay or raises.

Several times, Black had to prompt the audience to use their opportunity to speak.

Only a handful actually did any talking, although there were some 15 employees in the audience with Turberville.

One employee complained he'd lost 10 or 11 weeks of time-off under the previous city administration, despite assurances that would not happen. The lost time-off, said the employee, had accumulated for five or six years, when the city changed its personnel policies.

Other employees were pushing to see the city open the door for them to attend training seminars in new areas of expertise — cross training manual laborers. One employee said there's enough expertise in the department to allow for in-house training sessions.

Other employees complained that they have to walk in the rain to get into the Public Works yard — a wet trek that could be avoided if the city opened its rear gates to allow access.

Turberville's formal proposal to council covered all the subjects that employees brought up — and more.

One proposal calls for including all paid time off in calculation of overtime. That would happen, for instance, if an employee works one day during a week he's supposed to be taking off.

On the matter of seniority, the union plan asks for a policy that "where everything else is equal in a selection for a job, seniority will be the ruling factor. During lay-offs, the less senior employee would be laid off first, then called back to work after most senior employee on layoff is called back.

All job vacancies would be posted, with the most senior employees considered the successful bidder. The successful bidder would be given 30 days to train in the new job.

Seniority also would rule when conflicts over vacation schedules arise.

Overtime proposals provide a plan for scheduling who's to work for extra pay. The proposal also provides for posting upcoming schools and seminars, allowing employees to sign up to attend. If the number which can attend is limited, seniority rules.

Turberville also asked that showers and lockers be made available to employees and an additional bathroom.

His union outlined a grievance procedure for the city to adopt, in lieu of the existing one, an provides for payroll deductions of fees and dues.

One employee said there's a split of sentiment among city personnel about the union matter — some favor it, some oppose it, and some don't have an opinion. He was advised if the city did recognize the union and negotiates a contract, all employees would be covered by its provisions, whether they are union members or not.

Kids holiday doings

Bay-Waveland Girl Scout Troop #404 helped spread some Christmas cheer to the residents of Dunbar Village in Bay St. Louis by holding a Christmas party. The troop is part of the Volunteer Services Program at Professional Home Health, where each girl is assigned a resident who is her "adopted" grandparent.

Toys for Tots

Coast Episcopal School had their Christmas program over the holiday which included music, singing, readings and essays on "What Christmas Means to Me."

BETWEEN THE LINES

By Richard Meek

Too much hype

Super Bowl Week has arrived and is in full swing. This annual extravaganza of media gluttony is nothing more than a week of glitzy parties, speculation, glad-handing and lots of wagering, both legal and illegal.

Unfortunately, it is also the time when the media shows its darker side, for during Super Bowl week, members of the Fourth Estate take hyperbole to levels of obscenity.

Imagine thousands of reporters gathered like vultures around Troy Aikman and Neil O'Donnell, wanting to pounce on any little crumbs of verbiage these athletes may utter. It is almost vulgar to watch your peers, whom you respect for 51 weeks of the year, be reduced to carrying on like starry-eyed children meeting professional athletes for the first time.

In reality, by Super Bowl week, players from both teams have already spent a season and post-season being dissected like a laboratory animal.

The interviews border on, and go over the edge, of sanity. Does it really matter if a coach's parents are coming to the game? Do we really need to know how many hours Nate Newton abstains from sex before a big game?

Incidentally, don't believe everything the players say during this time. They know it's a circus, and some elect to further this atmosphere with outrageous comments.

To fully comprehend this tomfoolery, one has to understand the interview procedures. Players, decked out in game uniforms, sit at individual stations, waiting to be interviewed. The whole process is analogous to a high school dance, boys on one side, girls on the other, and who will make the first move?

Naturally, each team's quarterback draws the most attention. At times, up to several hundred reporters may be circled around this individual, querying him on such probing issues as his favorite high school teacher, does he really use the products he endorses, and how many biscuits can he eat at one sitting (that applies to Newton only). (Note: None of these discussions center on the game itself, which is always three hours of boredom anyway.)

The skill position players, i.e. running backs and wide receivers, are next on the media's list. Also, big name defensive players will attract a certain niche of reporters, although it takes an individual who once interviewed George Steinbrenner to write an accurate story about defense.

Meanwhile, the grunt guys (linemen), special teams players and substitutes sit alone, much like the ugly ducklings at the senior prom. Courtesy would dictate that the quarterback instruct the media to interview No. 56 over there (even the quarterback does not know the poor schmuck's name), but ego dictates otherwise.

Does this mean the quarterback has more to say, or is more knowledgeable than any of his team members. Certainly not. I present Kenny Stabler and Terry Bradshaw as Exhibits A and B.

What does this mean is that the quarterbacks are the media darlings, with the fan clubs and big-time endorsements. Consequently, their utterings (refer back to Exhibits A and B) will be tomorrow's headlines.

On another front, everybody but the actual participants are analyzing the game. Anyone who even once held a coach's whistle will be interviewed on ESPN 1, 2, 3 or 4, TNT, CNN, maybe even the Golf Channel, for their insightful analysis.

While all of these shannanigans are happening, Bosnian troops may have overrun the United States and are waiting outside the stadium for kickoff, yet no one would notice. But at least we would know the name of Kevin Greene's barber.

With 30 reporters this week in Tempe, Ariz., ESPN is the clear winner of the Hype Award. What could 30 reporters tell us about Pittsburgh and Dallas that we don't already know? But try they will, and if Michael Jordan dunks the Shaq, or Wayne Gretzky and Mario Lemeaux run off to a deserted island, well, that will just have to wait until next Monday's 2 a.m. Sports Center.

Super Bowl Week has become the NFL's annual masterful exploitation of the media for good PR. Amazingly, none of the media seem to mind.

The hype is entertaining to the fans, and there's the draw. Certainly, the game is an afterthought.

Speaking of the game, and yes, there will be one, expect the Steelers to be the latest whipping boy of the NFC. The Cowboys have been able to overcome several late season distractions and are primed to win their third world championship in four years.

One cannot discuss this game, however, without mentioning Cowboy coach Barry Switzer. This isn't exactly a "Win One for Barry" game, but a Dallas victory would certainly lift the burdensome weight of Jimmy Johnson off of Switzer's shoulders.

Enjoy the victory ride, Barry. Dallas 38, Pittsburgh 20.

OLA whips Greyhounds

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II

The Our Lady Academy soccer team got a huge boost from its star forward Andie Fillingame against the Ocean Springs Lady Greyhounds on Jan. 20. The Lady Greyhounds jumped out to a 1-0 lead in the first half but the lead lasted less than a minute.

Fillingame scored all four goals for the Crescents in the game bringing her career total to 62 goals.

The Crescents continue their domination of Mississippi competition as they will entertain Pascagoula in the first round of the inaugural girls state playoffs.

The Crescents now stand at 12-2 on the season.

Rocks pulverize 10th ranked Panthers

The St. Stanislaus Rock-a-chaw avenged an earlier season loss against the 10th ranked Petal Panthers by defeating them 86-75 in Bay St. Louis on Jan. 23.

The win moved the Rocks into a three way tie for first place in Division 7 Class 4A with three division games remaining. Petal and the Picayune-Maroon Tide are also in the three-way tie.

The Rocks pounced on the Panthers early and never let up. Petal had a slight 10-6 lead early on in the first quarter but the Rocks went on a 22-2 tear behind the scoring of Brian Thigpen who finished with 14 points in the game, all in the first half.

The halftime score of 44-24 showed that the Rocks were in total control of the game and the terrorizing continued.

Matt Kopfler paced the Rocks in the second half as finished the game with 24 points and 13 rebounds.

The Rocks led 63-46 at the end of the third quarter but the Panthers mounted a mini run at the end of the fourth quarter to make the contest a game. However, the lead was too much to overcome for the Panthers.

Terry Lawyer added 19 points and 12 rebounds for the 20-7 Rocks.

Memphis leads Conference USA Lee-McNelis & Ladner at the helm

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
The University of Memphis Lady Tiger basketball team is off to an 8-6 start and currently riding a four game winning streak. The Lady Tigers are coached by Hancock County native Joye Lee-McNelis and she is assisted by Mike Ladner.

Lee-McNelis and Ladner both prepped at Hancock North Central before starring in the college ranks. Lee-McNelis starred at the University of Southern Mississippi where she scored 1,510 points which places her fourth on the school's all-time points list. She has been the coach at Memphis for the past five years and sports a record of 70-59. Lee-McNelis guided the Lady Tigers to their first regular season Great Midwest title last year and took the team to the NCAA tournament for the first time since the 1986-87 season.

Ladner is the son of Mississippi coaching legend Roland Ladner and starred at Phillips College upon graduation from Hancock North Central. He has been Lee-McNelis' long time assistant at the University of Memphis. Before going to the University of Memphis, Ladner was the head coach at Bay St. Louis High School.

The Lady Tigers are riding a four game winning streak and will be invading Carbondale, Illinois, to take on the the Salukis of Southern Illinois University.

Currently, the Lady Tigers are leading the Conference USA standings with a 4-0 record.

Lady Tigers bite the Bearkittens Price sets school record

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
The Bay High Tigers basketball teams split two games with the Long Beach Bearcats on Friday, Jan. 19.

The Bay High Lady Tigers whipped the Bearkittens 46-33 while the Bearcats downed the Tigers 70-60.

The Lady Tigers opened the game with a 12-2 first period lead that was extended to 33-9 by halftime.

The Lady Tigers were led by an all-around game from Chanda Haley who scored 10 points, grabbed six rebounds, and had nine steals. Valerie Christmas added 13 points and seven rebounds in the win. Alicia Gavnagne rounded out the double figure scorers with 10 points.

The Lady Tigers now stand at 17-3 on the season.

The Bearcats opened the boys game with a 14-13 first period lead and exploded for 21 points in the second period. The Bearcats held the Tigers to just eight points in the third period.

Mark Price led all scorers and nailed a school record nine three-pointers to finish with 29 points. Stevie Lizana added 14 points in the win.

Bay High is now 2-19 on the year.

Rocks one step closer to 20 wins

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
The St. Stanislaus Rock-a-chaw basketball team downed Raleigh 78-45 in a non-division game on Saturday, Jan. 20.

The Rocks jumped out to a 25-8 lead and never looked back.

The Rocks held Raleigh to just four points in the third period as SSC scored 24 points.

Terry Lawyer led all scorers with 25 points while Matt Koffler added 16 points and eight rebounds.

The Rocks are now 19-7 on the year.

Diamondhead Nines winners

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
The Diamondhead Nines Golf Association held a Blind Hole Draw format on December 19 on the Back Pine course.

Jean Scrugham won first place while Mary Turner placed second. Third place was awarded to Marilyn Dehnostle and Margaret Smith finished fourth.

On January 2 a Trophy Day format was held on the Front Pine course.

Maureen Holt won low gross honors while Ellen Nutting placed tops with low net. Jean Scrugham was first in low putts and Gretchen Likes had a chip-in.

On January 9 a tournament was held on the Front Cardinal course. Low Gross honors went to Maureen Holt while Jean Scrugham won the low net honors. Pat Morgan was tops in low putts.

Prepare for purple martins

With the busy holiday season behind us, there is no better time than now to prepare for the arrival of purple martin scouts later this month, according to the Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks.

Purple martins are neotropical migratory birds that spend the winter in portions of South America and return to the United States and Canada in late winter and early spring for breeding.

Martin scouts usually begin arriving on the Gulf Coast in late January and show up in central and northern Mississippi by February 15. In addition to proper habitat, one key in attracting these popular birds to a site is erecting nest boxes in advance of martin scouts.

Martin nest structures should be taken down now and cleaned out. Old bird nests and any wasp nests remaining from last year should be discarded.

Natural gourds make excellent nesting cavities for purple martins. The useful life of gourds as nest sites can be prolonged if a water seal is applied before they are put up.

Veteran birders say to maximize your chances of attracting purple martins to your property, place your nest boxes or gourds in the most open site possible and at least 12 feet high. Nest structures should be away from trees or shrubbery.

Since purple martins are colonial nesting birds and nest in large groups, erecting as many nest structures as possible enhances your chances of attracting the birds.

Episcopal students honored

Coast Episcopal School students Kim Allen, right, and Laila Hlass have been named January Students of the Month for the 1995-96 school year by the Gulfport Exchange Club. They are among 10 students from area high schools to participate in this year's Exchange Club program. The students will all speak to members of the club on "See the Need... Meet the Challenge for America's 21st Century." A junior honor roll student, Allen is a member of the National Honor Society and is class representative to the Upper School Student Council. Hlass is serving this year as president of the Student Council. She is a junior honor roll student and a member of the National Honor Society.

UM president's list

Suzette L. Hardie of Bay St. Louis and Stephanie L. Corey of Diamondhead are both president's list students at the University of Mobile. In order to make the president's list, a student must maintain a 4.0 grade point average while taking at least 15 semester hours.

Sturgeon subject of Corps study

They are the "Spotted Owls" of America's river system. The mysterious sturgeon is one of the most important threatened species and aquatic environment issue facing the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers nationwide.

"In the last two years the Corps has spent $2 million studying sturgeon nationwide. If you include money spent by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife (USF&W) Service and what state agencies have spent, then you get an idea of just how big this problem is," said Dr. Jack Killgore, fisheries biologist at the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers Waterways Experiment Station (WES).

Killgore is working on the Gulf Sturgeon Monitoring Program in conjunction with the Corps' Vicksburg District office that oversees maintenance dredging on the West Pearl River.

"You ask Corps districts what is their No. 1 environmental issue and most will say sturgeon. Sturgeon cause frequent project delays and meetings upon meetings. Since we know so little about them, it is difficult to determine the impact on dredging."

Overfished commercially for its roe to make caviar and loss of spawning habitat, the Gulf Sturgeon was listed as a threatened species in 1991 under the Endangered Species Act.

"Hopefully, there will be some good biological information to come out of this monitoring program and we will be able to add to the knowledge base of the Gulf Sturgeon," said Gary Young, a biologist with the district's environmental branch.

There are eight species of sturgeon and one subspecies of Gulf Sturgeon in North America and all are listed as either threatened or endangered by at least one state. They are a very primitive fish, primarily comprised of cartilage with some bony plates on their sides; and they are found in most large river systems of North America.

Though the Gulf Sturgeon has a face that only a mother could love, the Vicksburg District office is spending $75,000 a year to monitor the fish in the West Pearl and other rivers in the Lower Pearl River Basin before resuming maintenance dredging on the West Pearl Navigation Project.

"As part of a U.S. Fish and Wildlife (USF&W) Service Biological Opinion we agreed to initiate the Gulf Sturgeon Monitoring Program one year prior to resuming the dredging and then continue that monitoring through the life of the project and then three years after the maintenance dredging stopped," said Young.

The dredging in the West Pearl is now on hold pending the outcome of lawsuits filed by environmental groups. The Gulf Sturgeon is the subject of one of these suits. "Dredging was scheduled to begin in May 1995. In all probability, the earliest dredging could resume on the West Pearl would be spring of 1997," said Andy Metts, the Vicksburg District's operation unit.

Though some data has been collected on populations of Gulf Sturgeon in the Apalachicola and the Suwannee Rivers of Florida, biologists have only recently started studying the Gulf Sturgeon in the Lower Pearl River system, partly due to the proposed resumption of maintenance dredging on the 52-mile West Pearl Navigation Project.

"There have been reports that the Gulf Sturgeon can live more than 40 years and can reach sizes greater than 6 ft. in length and 500 lbs. The Gulf Sturgeon is a subspecies of the Atlantic Sturgeon which has been reported to live up to 100 years and reach a weight of 1,000 lbs.," Killgore said.

The Gulf Sturgeon is an anadromous fish like a salmon. They live in salt water for most of their lives but return to fresh water to spawn.

"The adults move into fresh water in spring seeking out preferred spawning sites. Those are fast flowing gravel riffles," Killgore said.

The monitoring program makes use of radio tracking. This part of the monitoring program is being coordinated closely with two other similar studies being conducted by Mississippi and Louisiana resource agencies.

"We attach radio transmitters to the sturgeons. We have found that during the summer, they more or less remain in the same area, deep holes in the Middle Pearl. We have tracked one to the West Pearl up to the I-10 bridge, but, that fish eventually left. A drop in water temperature will stimulate their downstream movement into Lake Pontchartrain," Killgore said.

The Gulf Sturgeon Monitoring Program, under way for about 19 months, is also attempting to note the abundance and distribution of larval, juvenile and adult fish. This data will be used to determine the physical habitat requirements of each of these groups and how this habitat may be affected by the dredging.

"Eggs and larvae are difficult to collect; we have been unsuccessful, but we will continue to try. That will be one emphasis next spring. We're going to try and collect eggs and larvae," Killgore said.

The Corps is also evaluating the swimming ability and water velocity preference of Gulf Sturgeon in WES laboratory experiments and relating this data to the hydraulic dredge that will be used in the West Pearl.

The USF&W opinion stated that the resumption of dredging on the West Pearl would not jeopardize the continued existence of the Gulf Sturgeon, but the USF&W recommended measures to minimize any potential impact on the Gulf Sturgeon.

"There were three things the Corps agreed to do," said Daniel Gregg, USF&W Service wildlife biologist. "The Corps had to map out the deep holes, which provide good habitat for the Gulf Sturgeon. They also had to initiate the monitoring program, then analyze and review the data after one year with the National Marine Fisheries Service, which has jurisdiction over the fish when they are in the Gulf."

BACKACHE.

The little pain that lasts and lasts.

Back pain often starts small. Sometimes it disappears; usually it returns; often it gets worse. If left untreated, back pain can linger for years as a nagging reminder that all is not well.

Your job may be the culprit; you may sit all day hunched over a desk; you may lift heavy objects; you may be constantly bending over, caring for children. These are common causes of misaligned vertebrae of the spine and may be good reasons why you have back pain.

And because the spine is a complex system which is connected to other areas of the body, misaligned vertebrae in the spine can also be the reason for tension, stiffness, fatigue and more specifically back pain and headaches.

Our doctors at HODA CHIROPRACTIC CLINICS are specialists in back care. They can restore spinal vertebrae to their proper position, relieving pain and avoiding further complications.

Make this the last morning your back is left untreated. See Dr. Desmond W. Hoda.

Athletes sought for Special Olympics

Athletes need to begin training now to be ready for the 14th Annual John C. Stennis Area III Special Olympics Track and Field Competition scheduled for March 30.

To be eligible to play, athletes must be at least eight years old (no upper age limit), be mentally handicapped and must have a current medical form on file with the Special Olympics.

Cheryl York, Area III director, urges all eligible athletes to sign up for this fun-filled day of games and activities. Athletes may contact York at (601) 864-1598 to obtain additional information and the necessary paperwork.

Track and field competition includes 50-, 100-, 200- and 400-meter dashes, 4x100 relay, walks, wheelchair races, assisted walks, running and standing long jumps, shot put and softball and tennis throws.

Winners from these games go forward to the state games at Keesler Air Force Base in May.

According to Stennis chairman Becky Rotundo, this event draws more than 250 athletes from Hancock, Harrison, Pearl River and Stone counties, as well as over 500 volunteers and sponsors.

The mission of the Special Olympics is to provide year-round sports training and athletic competition in a variety of Olympic-type sports for all mentally handicapped children and adults, giving them continuing opportunities to develop physical fitness, demonstrate courage, experience joy and participate in the sharing of gifts, skills and friends with their families, other Special Olympians and the community.

Through successful experiences in sports, Olympians gain confidence and build a positive self-image which carries over into the classroom, the home, the job and the community.

A key feature of Special Olympics is a series of sports competitions patterned on the world Olympics and held annually at each organizational level, culminating in International Summer and Winter Games, which alternate every two years. In addition to the athletic competition, all of these games include the pageantry and excitement of Olympic Games, with events such as opening and closing ceremonies, the lighting of the Special Olympic Flame of Hope and awards ceremonies.

DAV Winter Sports Clinic

The 1996 Winter Sports Clinic, jointly sponsored by the Disabled American Veterans (DAV) and the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA), will be held in Crested Butte, Colo. March 24-29.

More than 200 severely handicapped veterans will gather on the slopes of the Colorado Rockies and discover that physical impairment doesn't have to stand in the way of achievement.

"Most of the participants have never skied before," said DAV National Commander Tom McMasters, a Vietnam veteran. "Most have suffered such debilitating injuries that they believed their lives were over. Many have been told they would never walk again.
